

It is good to see the one man is gone since he was clearly biased that the science was settled. There is another panel member who is also biased and if you come back with a whitewash the public will not respect your decision. Phil Jones has admitted there has been no climate change since 1995. This now changes things greatly. I'm sorry but being on a tiny pension I can't pay money on a non-existent problem. Just come clean and admit the errors and get on with it. Cause I will not now or ever pay big bucks for people who are only interested in keeping big money. I can't say I have any faith in your committee.
